FRONT-END WEB DEVELOPER

I am a front-end web developer dedicated to captivating users with outstanding visuals and intuitive UX/UI. Leveraging my background as a content writer, I bring a meticulous eye for detail to ensure clean, readable code and pixel-perfect precision in web design. I am seeking a position in which I can utilize my technical abilities and creative flair to contribute to a dynamic web development team, crafting cutting-edge online experiences.

TECHNICAL PROJECTS

PetPals - GitHub | Live Site

A meetup app designed to facilitate pet playdates and connect pet owners within local communities

- Developed front end with React and Bootstrap, integrating responsive design principles to elevate user experience
- Utilized Flask and SQLAlchemy to create a relational database and RESTful API back end
- Authenticated users with sessions to create a seamless login and signup experience
- Incorporated bcrypt password hashing to secure user information

First Friend - GitHub | Live Site

A Korean language learning app that allows users to browse a collection of resources and upload their own materials

- Styled React frontend with Tailwind CSS and Material UI to create visually appealing, responsive components
- Employed React Router to configure navigation between components
- Dynamically updated items on the homepage depending on the number of "likes" of each item in the database

OnTrack - GitHub

A CLI app designed to streamline the job application process by allowing users to organize and manage job applications

- Created and modified a custom database using SQLAlchemy ORM
- Implemented email reminder functionality by leveraging the APScheduler library
